Adlai Hits Ike's Statement World Situation Better

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson tonight accused President Eisenhower of "misleading" the American people in his statement that there is room for cautious belief that the world situation is improving.

On the contrary, Stevenson said he believes the situation now is less promising than it was three years ago when Eisenhower took office.

Stevenson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said on a television broadcast—NBC—"The meeting the press" that the international situation has deteriorated from the western Mediterranean to Southeast Asia.

Leadership "Baffled"

"Our posture at home has diminished," he said. "Our leadership is baffled and uncertain."

Eisenhower in a formal address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors last night said that when he talked to them three years ago, "human freedom was under direct assault in important sectors by the disciples of communist dictatorship."

"To many," Eisenhower said, "the chance for a just and enduring peace seemed hopeless."

"Today, only three years later," the President added, "we have reason for cautious hope that a new, a fruitful, a peaceful era for mankind can emerge from a haunted decade. The world breathes a little more easily today."

Not Question of War Alone

But Eisenhower said, "The future alone can show whether the Communists really want to move toward a just and stable peace."

Stevenson said it well may be that the chances of a shooting war have diminished. But said it isn't a question just of war when it comes to opposing the Soviet Communist system.

"We could very well lose the contest without the Communists firing a shot," he declared.

The West Germans said they were told the Britishers were being questioned but probably would be released later.

BOISE, Idaho, April 22 (AP)—Volunteers bolstered the dikes of half a dozen rivers in Idaho and eastern Oregon today as Pacific Northwest mountains began to shed one of their heaviest snowpacks in history.

Navy Gamble On Jet Plane "Total Loss"

265 Million Dollar Project "Failure," Senate Probers Say

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Investigating senators said today the Navy's effort to produce a new jet fighter during the Korean War was "a total loss" except for "lessons learned."

The project cost more than 265 million dollars, the senators said. The highly critical report came from the Senate Preparedness Investigating subcommittee headed by Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

It was one in a series of investigations and reports made by both Senate and House groups on the Navy's attempts to develop an all-purpose carrier based fighter, known as "Demon."

"Except for the lessons learned, the money spent on the F3H (Demon), is a total loss," Johnson said in a letter forwarding the report to Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee.

The report said 107 engines for the plane were delivered by Westinghouse Electric Corp. and 60 aircraft by the McDonnell Co. of St. Louis. Only a few of the fighters have actually been flown and none is slated for operational use.

Many of the fighters, minus engines, are to be used for ground instructions, testing and similar purposes.

"Failure And Delay"

The report credited Navy officials with cooperation in the inquiry. But Johnson rejected their claim that the Demon program eventually was successful because of the recent delivery of the F3H2, powered with an Allison engine.

Johnson said the program was "shot through with failure and delay."

The report said a new aircraft procurement plan by the Navy—called "try before you buy"—is best adapted to peacetime conditions.

In the main, this plan calls for full testing of both engines and airframe before new models are put into full production or placed in active use.

Autherine Lucy Weds Minister

DALLAS, Tex., April 22 (AP)—Thousands of Dallas Negroes and a handful of whites crowded the St. John Baptist church here this afternoon to see Miss Autherine Lucy marry her Miss Sweetheart.

The Birminghams, Ala., secretary who was expelled from the University of Alabama after her attendance at the all-white school spared a series of campus riots, was shy and nervous.

The bridegroom, the Rev. H. C. Foster, a student minister of Tyler, Tex., who was a sophomore at Miles College, Ala., five years ago when she was a senior, was poised and smiling.

"I declare, he looks just like a prince," a uniformed usherette in the jammed auditorium whispered as the 27-year-old groom appeared in his white dinner jacket and black tie.

The 26-year-old bride wore a regal-looking gown of white silk with a lace bodice and a cathedral train.

The wedding had been scheduled to start at 3 p.m. but it took the bride's party almost half an hour to get in the church, through a mass of people standing in the entrance hall and in every aisle, and down to the altar.

Harriman Denies He's Kefauver Fund Donor

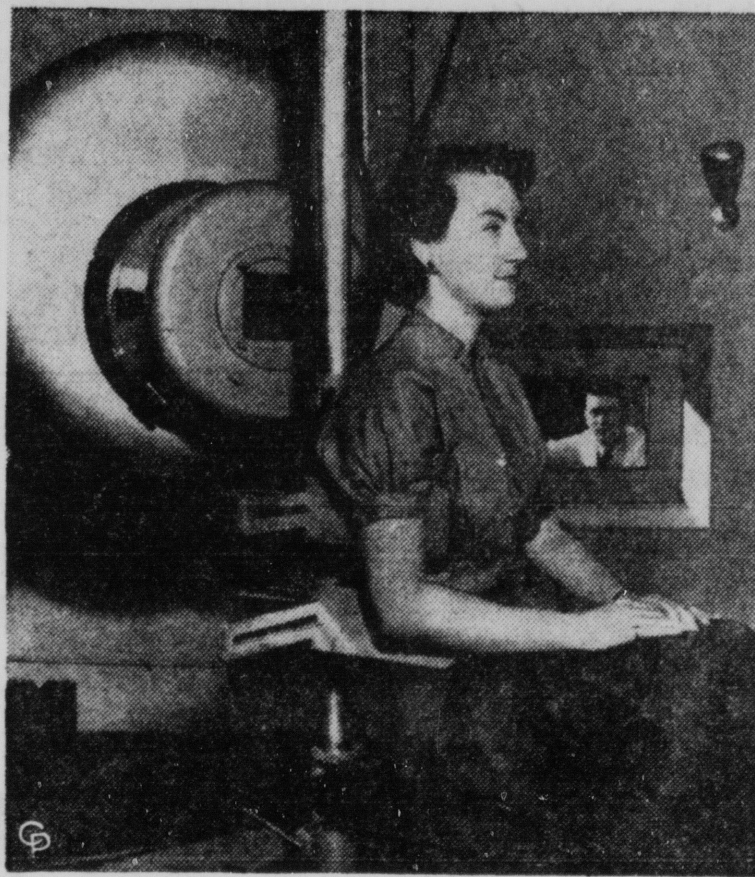

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman today labeled as "absurd" reports that he and his supporters for the Democratic presidential nomination are putting money into the campaign of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

There have been reports recently that Harriman funds were going into Kefauver's primary fight for the nomination in an effort to knock out the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson and prepare the way for Harriman to get the nomination.

"Lewis stopped the bus," Goggin related to police. "He got up with a pistol in his hand and hit me on top of the head. We began fighting and the struggle took us to the rear exit. Lewis gave a yank on an emergency lever, opening the door, and stepped out. I followed him and he fired a shot at me. I was only five feet from him but he missed me."

Baby's First Record

LOS ANGELES, April 22 (AP)—A recording of baby's first cries will be given each set of new parents at California Hospital starting this week. The plastic record also will include the doctor's words as the baby is delivered, hospital officials said.

The slotted muzzle of Stanford University's new "cancer gun" is trained on Patricia Steed, a research assistant who sits in the power-driven revolving chair used for patients. The six-million volt linear electron accelerator generates high energy X-rays which are now being used in the treatment of deep-seated cancer at the Stanford Medical School, California. ## 11-Year-Old Boy Kills His Parents, Brother

MANFIELD, Conn., April 22 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy with poor eyesight, apparently brooding, police said, over a parental spanking, shot and killed his parents and an older brother who picked on him.

The shooting occurred at milking time last night on the small farm of Richard Curgenven, 42. He died in the triple tragedy with his wife Beatrice, 41, and their other son, Richard Jr., 14.

Police said no one knew about it until Robert Curgenven went to a neighbor's home to tell him what he had done after having spent the night with the bodies.

State Police Lt. Harry Taylor reported the boy said he sighted

Taylor said that the boy's story sounded so fantastic that the neighbor, to whom he reported the tragedy, would not at first believe it.

Taylor said Robert apparently planned the shootings a week ago, after his last spanking. At that time, his father told him to put out the light in his room and go to bed and finally spanked him after repeating the order several times.

Taylor said Robert gave this account of the shootings, speaking quickly, and only breaking into tears two or three times.

He went out to the barn last evening about 5:30 o'clock where he found his brother milking a cow.

Robert shot him twice, reloading each time, and the brother threw the milk can at him. Robert backed out of the barn door, and when Richard staggered out, he shot him a third time in the stomach. The older boy fell to the ground and Robert shot him for the fourth time, in the head.

Then he went around to the front of the house. His mother was in a bedroom and he shot through the window. The bullet struck her just over the heart.

His father came out of the front door, Robert said, "Hi, dad," and shot him. The father crumpled on the path outside the front door. His father told Robert to give him the gun, but Robert reloaded and shot him again.

Refugees Protest Visit

While the Soviet leaders made their social tour, thousands of Eastern refugees marched in orderly protest against their visit. The refugees prayed for those left behind the Iron Curtain.

The Russians, at Windsor Castle, presented the Queen with a Russian sable wrap. While they sipped their tea, young Prince Charles and Princess Anne were brought in for a polite how-do-you-do.

The Russians gave them gifts, too. Bulganin and Khrushchev motored to Windsor on a pleasant spring day from Chequers, where they were guests of Prime Minister Eden at his official country residence.

Democrats have been counting on the measure to give them a meaty campaign issue this year, especially since the Eisenhower administration came out flatly against the two main provisions in the bill.

The two sections would lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women become eligible for Social Security retirement payments, and set up for the first time a program of benefits for persons totally disabled at age 50 or older.

Republican members said privately they believed both provisions could be stricken from the bill in committee, with the aid of one or two Democratic votes. The committee lineup is 8-7 Democratic.

But the GOP members also said they doubt whether such action could be sustained on the Senate floor, where the key votes are likely to come on recorded roll calls.

Six Killed When Cars Crash Near Irwin, Pa.

IRWIN, Pa., April 22 (AP)—Six persons were killed and two others were critically injured last night when an auto carrying four teenagers collided with a car occupied by four steelworkers.

The crash killed all four teenagers and two steelworkers. The other two steelworkers are in critical condition.

State Police said the teen-agers' auto, operated by Wallace W. Bush III, 16, of Westmoreland Co., Pa., struck the rear of a trailer being pulled by an auto operated by William G. Valentine of Houston, Tex.

The teen-agers' auto, police said, then swerved across the highway and collided with the steelworker's car, driven by Woodrow Leasure, 27, of Scott, Pa.

Soviet Bosses Take Tea With British Queen

Indications Russian "Salesmen" Angling For Bid To Visit U.S.

LONDON, April 22 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin had tea today with Queen Elizabeth II at grey old Windsor Castle. Then they hustled off to a London reception where they talked of a changed, more hospitable Russia and invited Britons to visit any place in the Soviet Union.

They mingled with 26 of London's 28 mayors, with aldermen and sheriffs, and other guests in London's County Hall across the Thames from the houses of Parliament.

"You must come to Russia, it's not the same in Russia now," Communist party chief Khrushchev told Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell.

Bulganin Goes Further

Premier Bulganin shortly thereafter went a bit further in a talk to the assembled London officials.

"I fully understand the significance of what I'm saying, and I say again and again and again that we welcome visits to Moscow and any other part of our country by people from London or any other part of Britain."

Part areas of the Soviet Union have been closed to foreigners.

There were indications that the two Russian visitors were angling in the course of their British tour for an invitation to visit the United States.

One Soviet official told a correspondent that, "This visit is, above all, a rehearsal for the visit we hope Khrushchev and Bulganin will make to the U.S.A.—after the presidential elections, of course."

Both Parties Optimistic

Party leaders already are making predictions about the outcome. Democratic State Chairman Joseph M. Barr said Democrats would give Stevenson a "resounding vote of confidence" and prove that Pennsylvanians hold him in "high esteem."

Henry W. Lark, chairman of the Republican State Primary Campaign Committee, predicted a "one-sided vote" for Eisenhower.

But GOP State Chairman Miles Horst said the preferential voting "won't decide anything" though he contended Democrats hoped to pile up a bigger vote for Stevenson than Eisenhower gets on the GOP side.

GOP Closes Shrink

Circumstances today are substantially different than in the 1952 general election when Eisenhower outdistanced Stevenson, rolling up 2,415,789 votes against 2,146,269.

At that time the Republicans controlled the state. Now the Democrats have the governor, a spot they captured two years ago for the first time since 1934. They elected George Leader with a 280,000-vote majority reversing Eisenhower's almost identical 1952 advantage.

The 933,567 Republican bulge in registration in 1952 has shrunk to 444,751. The GOP today has 2,683,410 eligible voters, down 446,668 in four years, while the Democrats have gained 102,148 to 2,238,659 now.

35 Of 36 Boats Reported Missing In Race Located

LONG BEACH, Calif., April 22 (AP)—A huge air and sea search succeeded today in accounting for all but one of 36 outboard motorboats originally reported missing in a race from the mainland to Santa Catalina Island.

Cmdr. Arthur M. Davison of the Coast Guard said the unidentified boat and occupants may have made port somewhere or may not even have started in the fleet of 209 boats which left yesterday morning.

The Coast Guard used 17 ships, two airplanes and two naval reserve blimps in the search. Private craft and planes also participated.

Nine boats among those believed missing never started, Davison said.

Ben-Gurion Warns, However, Danger Of 'Arab War' Remains

JERUSALEM, April 22 (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion told the Israeli Parliament today "prospects for lessening tension along the Israeli-Arab borders have become better than for some time past."

He attributed this to the Middle East peace mission of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

But he warned that the "danger of an Arab war of aggression against Israel is by no means over."

"Agreements which they—Arab states—have signed mean nothing more to them than a scrap of paper," he declared. "And since the end of the war they have not ceased, either openly or secretly, to prepare for a second round in order to wipe Israel off the map."

As long as they are uncertain that they can do this by military strength, they have tried and continue to try to do so by boycott and economic blockade on the one hand and through guerrilla warfare on the other."

The Premier addressed the Knesset—Parliament—to urge approval of a special new defense tax which it is estimated will raise 28 million dollars. The measure would raise income taxes by 25 per cent, and increase taxes on electricity, gas, telephones and cars and increase duties on beer, tobacco and electrical equipment.

"Our policy to strengthen our defenses and at the same time to strive for peace with our neighbors now requires maximum effort," Ben-Gurion declared.

The Premier repeated his appeal to the United States and other countries to sell Israel defensive arms to achieve "a balance of forces between Israel and the Arab countries."

Armistice Pacts Reviewed

Ben-Gurion reviewed the armistice agreements which ended the fighting of 1948 with Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan and said Israel had always tried to attain a permanent peace "while preserving the security of the state, the integrity of its borders and its sovereignty."

"So long as peace has not yet come, we are determined strictly to observe the armistice agreements, again on a condition of mutuality," he said.

He disclosed that in his talks with Hammarskjöld he had reaffirmed readiness "to examine all avenues leading toward permanent peace" if the secretary general "found in any of the neighboring countries a sincere inclination toward peace."

Bus Driver Beats, Shoots At Man In Change Fracas

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP)—A city bus driver was arrested today after, police said, he pistol-whipped and shot at a passenger who didn't have the exact fare.

The driver, Herman Lewis, 35, was charged with assault to kill. The Chicago Transit Authority announced he had been fired because of the incident.

The passenger, William Goggin, 31, a taxi driver, suffered a head laceration requiring several stitches.

Police said Goggin gave them this version of the fracas:

Having finished work, he got on a bus to go home and proffered a dollar bill to Lewis. Lewis refused to change the bill so that Goggin could drop 20 cents into the coin box.

Goggin then displayed 15 cents as the only change in his possession.

After some words, Lewis finally changed the dollar bill and Goggin dropped the fare into the box, saying, "I thought you didn't have change."

"Lewis stopped the bus," Goggin related to police. "He got up with a pistol in his hand and hit me on top of the head. We began fighting and the struggle took us to the rear exit. Lewis gave a yank on an emergency lever, opening the door and he fired a shot at me. I was only five feet from him but he missed me."

Social Security Tiein Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Commission on Veterans' Benefits today recommended that veterans' pensions be "minimized and gradually eliminated" by tying them in with Social Security payments. It described the idea of continuing the pensions as "weak" and "backward-looking."

The pension recommendation was one of 70 which, if adopted, would fundamentally change many of the benefits now being granted by the government to the nation's 22 million veterans, including disability compensation, widows' pensions, GI insurance, survivors' benefits, and readjustment payments.

The recommendations were made to the President in a 415-page report on which the commission, headed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, spent more than a year.

Controversy Certain

The commission made little attempt to chart the actual impact of the many changes it proposed for veterans, servicemen and survivors, but it appeared that a number of them would lower or cut out many of the payments now being made.

For example, some 350,000 of the more than 700,000 veterans now getting pensions also draw Social Security payments. The commission's recommendations include deducting the Social Security payments from the pensions of some veterans.

The proposals, which conflict sharply with the benefit programs of various veterans organizations, are bound to stir up controversy. None of the veterans organizations had any immediate comment. Neither did officials of the Veterans Administration.

Major Proposals

The major recommendations, if accepted by the President and passed by Congress, would:

Tie Social Security payments up with veterans' pensions so that a veteran would not get more than a total of $70 a month from both sources if he were single or $105 if he had a dependent wife.

Set up entirely new eligibility requirements for veterans' pensions, including lower income limits.

Revise the method of payment of compensation for disabilities received in service so that those veterans with minor disabilities would get less compensation and those with total disability would get more.

Other Recommendations

Eliminate the flat monthly payments now made to disabled vets for loss of use of certain parts of their body.

Study the possibility of paying lump sum amounts to many veterans with small service-connected disabilities and thus eliminate further monthly payments.

Transfer the World War II and Korean GI loan programs to the Federal Housing Administration and extend the World War II program beyond the July 27, 1957 deadline so that the rights would gradually expire over the following two years.

Eliminate the sale of government life insurance after a serviceman is discharged, except to men with service disabilities which would prevent them from buying commercial life insurance at standard rates.

"I declare, he looks just like a prince," a uniformed usherette in the jammed auditorium whispered as the 27-year-old groom appeared in his white dinner jacket and black tie.

The 26-year-old bride wore a regal-looking bridal gown of white silk with a lace bodice and a cathedral train.

The wedding had been scheduled to start at 3 p.m. but it took the bride's party almost half an hour to get in the church, through a mass of people standing in the entrance hall and in every aisle, and down to the altar.

Harriman Denies He's Kefauver Fund Donor

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman today labeled as "absurd" reports that he and his supporters for the Democratic presidential nomination are putting money into the campaign of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

There have been reports recently that Harriman funds were going into Kefauver's primary fight for the nomination in an effort to knock out the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson and prepare the way for Harriman to get the nomination.

"Lewis stopped the bus," Goggin related to police. "He got up with a pistol in his hand and hit me on top of the head. We began fighting and the struggle took us to the rear exit. Lewis gave a yank on an emergency lever, opening the door and he fired a shot at me. I was only five feet from him but he missed me."

New "Cancer Gun"

The slotted muzzle of Stanford University's new "cancer gun" is trained on Patricia Steed, a research assistant who sits in the power-driven revolving chair used for patients. The six-million volt linear electron accelerator generates high energy X-rays which are now being used in the treatment of deep-seated cancer at the Stanford Medical School, California. Dr. Clarence J. Karam (right) sits at the "gun's" controls, looking into the radiation-proof chamber through a lead glass window.

11-Year-Old Boy Kills His Parents, Brother

MANSFIELD, Conn., April 22 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy with poor eyesight, apparently brooding, police said, over a parental spanking, shot and killed his parents and an older brother who picked on him.

The shooting occurred at milking time last night on the small farm of Richard Curgenven, 42. He died in the triple tragedy with his wife Beatrice, 41, and their other son, Richard Jr., 14.

Police said no one knew about it until Robert Curgenven went to a neighbor's home to tell him what he had done after having spent the night with the bodies.

State Police Lt. Harry Taylor reported the boy said he sighted a .22 caliber rifle with his left eye, because his right eye was poor, and held his spare bullets in his teeth.

Taylor said that the boy's story sounded so fantastic that the neighbor, to whom he reported the tragedy, would not at first believe it.

Taylor said Robert apparently planned the shootings a week ago, after his last spanking. At that time, his father told him to put out the light in his room and go to bed and finally spanked him after repeating the order several times.

Taylor said Robert gave this account of the shootings, speaking quickly, and only breaking into tears two or three times:

He went out to the barn last evening about 5:30 o'clock where he found his brother milking a cow.

Robert shot him twice, reloading each time, and the brother threw the milk can at him. Robert backed out of the barn door, and when Richard staggered out, he shot him a third time in the stomach. The older boy fell to the ground and Robert shot him for the fourth time, in the head.

Then he went around to the front of the house. His mother was in a bedroom and he shot through the window. The bullet struck her just over the heart.

His father came out of the front door, Robert said, "Hi, dad," and shot him. The father crumpled on the path outside the front door. His father told Robert to give him the gun, but Robert reloaded and shot him again.

Family Of Seven Wiped Out By Fire

ROME, N. Y., April 22 (INS)—Seven members of one family, including five children, perished tonight when flames swept their Rome, N. Y., home.

The fire, which firemen said broke out in the kitchen about 10:30 p. m. (EST), killed Mr. and Mrs. Alex Siditski and their five children, Barbara 11, Peter 8, Susan 7, David 5, and Mary Anne 2.

That's up to my husband," she replied. She said they had a fine trip from Chicago.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 22 (AP)—The calm of a midwestern Sabbath settled over Jackson County today as the Trumans and the Wallaces exchanged recollections of yesterday's big family event.

Harry S. Truman, the former president, was up early for a quick trip to nearby Kansas City to see what the out-of-town Sunday papers said about daughter Margaret's wedding to Clifton Daniel Jr. in little Trinity Episcopal Church.

"By and large, everyone seemed to understand that Margaret, her mother and I wanted to keep the wedding as reverent and as solemn as a marriage contract deserves," Truman said.

Soviet Bosses Take Tea With British Queen

Indications Russian "Salesmen" Angling For Bid To Visit U.S.

LONDON, April 22 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin had tea today with Queen Elizabeth II at grey old Windsor Castle. Then they hustled off to a London reception where they talked of a changed, more hospitable Russia and invited Britons to visit any place in the Soviet Union.

They mingled with 26 of London's 28 mayors, with aldermen and sheriffs, and other guests in London's County Hall across the Thames from the houses of Parliament.

"You must come to Russia, it's not the same in Russia now," Communist party chief Khrushchev told Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell.

Bulganin Goes Further

Premier Bulganin shortly thereafter went a bit further in a talk to the assembled London officials.

"I fully understand the significance of what I'm saying, and I say again and again and again that we welcome visits to Moscow and any other part of our country by people from London or any other part of Britain."

Vast areas of the Soviet Union have been closed to foreigners.

There were indications that the two Russian visitors were angling in the course of their British tour for an invitation to visit the United States.

One Soviet official told a correspondent that, "This visit is, above all, a rehearsal for the visit we hope Khrushchev and Bulganin will make to the U.S.A.—after the presidential elections, of course."

Refugees Protest Visit

While the Soviet leaders made their social tour, thousands of Eastern refugees marched in orderly protest against their visit. The refugees prayed for those left behind in Iron Curtain.

The Russians, at Windsor Castle, presented the Queen with a Russian sable wrap. While they sipped their tea, young Prince Charles and Princess Anne were brought in for a polite how-do-you-do. The Russians gave them gifts, too.

Bulganin and Khrushchev motored to Windsor on a pleasant spring day from Chequers, where they were guests of Prime Minister Eden at his official country residence.

Social Security Tussle Looms

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—A sharp tussle is in prospect when the Senate Finance Committee starts work behind closed doors Tuesday to write its version of a bill broadening the Social Security program.

Democrats have been counting on the measure to give them a meaty campaign issue this year, especially since the Eisenhower administration came out flatly against the two main provisions in the bill.

The two sections would lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women become eligible for Social Security retirement payments, and set up for the first time a program of benefits for persons totally disabled at age 50 or older.

Republican members said privately they believed both provisions could be stricken from the bill in committee, with the aid of one or two Democratic votes. The committee lineup is 8-7 Democratic.

But the GOP members also said they doubt whether such action could be sustained on the Senate floor, where the key votes are likely to come on recorded roll calls.

Six Killed When Cars Crash Near Irwin, Pa.

IRWIN, Pa., April 22 (AP)—Six persons were killed and two others were critically injured last night when an auto carrying four teen-agers collided with a car occupied by four steelworkers.

The crash killed all four teen-agers and two steelworkers. The other two steelworkers are in critical condition.

State Police said the teen-agers' auto, operated by Wallace W. Bush III, 16, of Westmoreland Co., Pa., struck the rear of a trailer being pulled by an auto operated by William G. Valentine of Houston, Tex.

The teen-agers' auto, police said, then swerved across the highway and collided with the steelworker's car, driven by Woodrow Leasure, 27, of Scott, Pa.

35 Of 36 Boats Reported Missing In Race Located

LONG BEACH, Calif., April 22 (AP)—A huge air and sea search succeeded today in accounting for all but one of 36 outboard motorboats originally reported missing in a race from the mainland to Santa Catalina Island.

Cmdr. Arthur M. Davison of the Coast Guard said the unidentified boat and occupants may have made port somewhere or may not even have started in the fleet of 209 boats which left yesterday morning.

The Coast Guard used 17 ships, two airplanes and two naval reserve blimps in the search. Private craft and planes also participated.

Nine boats among those believed missing never started, Davison said.

Pa. 'Popularity' Contest Stars Ike, Stevenson

PHILADELPHIA, April 22 (AP)—Pennsylvanians cast "popularity" ballots in Tuesday's presidential preference primary that features the names of President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

It won't be a head-on clash between the two men who were the 1952 nominees since the Keystone State's 4,970,195 registered voters can't cross party lines. But, in a sense, it will be a popularity contest between them.

Whatever the results, they are expected to give politicians plenty to talk and argue about—especially as they are weighed in comparison with the 1952 primary and general election figures.

Both Parties Optimistic

Party leaders already are making predictions about the outcome. Democratic State Chairman Joseph M. Barr said Democrats would give Stevenson a "resounding vote of confidence" and prove that Pennsylvanians hold him in "high esteem."

Henry W. Lark, chairman of the Republican State Primary Campaign Committee, predicted a "one-sided vote" for Eisenhower.

But GOP State Chairman Miles Horst said the preferential voting "won't decide anything" though he contended Democrats hoped to pile up a bigger vote for Stevenson than Eisenhower gets on the GOP side.

Armistice Pacts Reviewed

Ben-Gurion reviewed the armistice agreements which ended the fighting of 1948 with Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan and said Israel had always tried to attain a permanent peace "while preserving the security of the state, the integrity of its borders and its sovereignty."

"So long as peace has not yet come, we are determined strictly to observe the armistice agreements, again on a condition of mutualty," he said.

"He disclosed that in his talks with Hammarskjold he had reaffirmed readiness "to examine all avenues leading toward permanent peace" if the secretary general "found in any of the neighboring countries a sincere inclination toward peace."

"Mrs. U. S. Navy" Contest Planned

LONG BEACH, Calif., April 22 (AP)—The Navy is looking for the ideal Navy wife.

A contest to find "Mrs. U. S. Navy of 1956" will wind up here Sept. 15. Sponsored by the Fleet Reserve Assn., it will offer the winner $2,500 and a trip to Hawaii and several U. S. Cities.

The association announced yesterday the contest is open to wives of enlisted men and each of 34 Navy stations will choose its representative for the Long Beach finals. Each contestant must write an essay, "Why I Am Proud to Be a Navy Wife."

Alabama County Without Vote Registration Board

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 22 (AP)—Voter registration machinery has broken down again in Macon County where Negroes, many of them college-educated, outnumber white residents 5 to 1.

For the third time in a decade, the county where famed Tuskegee Institute was founded by Booker T. Washington 75 years ago is without a Board of Registrars and has been for several months.

No one, white or Negro, has been able to register for voting since the board ceased to function in January with only one of the three appointed members remaining in office.

One member, Mrs. J. F. Segrest, refused her appointment as soon as she was notified last November. Another, S.S. Humphries, resigned in January, leaving only Chairman W.H. Bentley on the board.

Since it takes at least two members to transact business, the board has been unable to function. Negro leaders said Humphries, who had been on the board three

Israel Leader Says Tension Can Be Eased

Ben-Gurion Warns, However, Danger Of 'Arab War' Remains

JERUSALEM, April 22 (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion told the Israeli Parliament today "prospects for lessening tension along the Israeli-Arab borders have become better than for some time past."

He attributed this to the Middle East peace mission of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

But he warned that the "danger of an Arab war of aggression against Israel is by no means over."

"Agreements which they—Arab states—have signed mean nothing more to them than a scrap of paper," he declared. "And since the end of the war they have not ceased, either openly or secretly, to prepare for a second round in order to wipe Israel off the map."

New Defense Tax Asked

"As long as they are uncertain that they can do this by military strength, they have tried and continue to try to do so by boycott and economic blockade on the one hand and through unceasing guerrilla warfare on the other."

The Premier addressed the Knesset—Parliament—to urge approval of a special new defense tax which it is estimated will raise 28 million dollars. The measure would raise income taxes by 25 per cent, and increase taxes on electricity, gas, telephones and cars and increase duties on beer, tobacco and electrical equipment.

"Our policy to strengthen our defenses and at the same time to strive for peace with our neighbors now requires maximum effort," Ben-Gurion declared.

The Premier repeated his appeal to the United States and other countries to sell Israel defensive arms to achieve "a balance of forces between Israel and the Arab countries."

Ben-Gurion reviewed the armistice agreements which ended the fighting of 1948 with Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan and said Israel had always tried to attain a permanent peace "while preserving the security of the state, the integrity of its borders and its sovereignty."

"So long as peace has not yet come, we are determined strictly to observe the armistice agreements, again on a condition of mutualty," he said.

"He disclosed that in his talks with Hammarskjold he had reaffirmed readiness "to examine all avenues leading toward permanent peace" if the secretary general "found in any of the neighboring countries a sincere inclination toward peace."

Robber Is Shot In Gun Battle

BALTIMORE, April 22 (AP)—A man who was wounded twice in a running gun battle with police yesterday was reported "feeling all right" today in Lutheran Hospital.

He was admitted to the hospital after being captured on the steps of a West Baltimore house by officers investigating a holdup report. Bleeding from bullet wounds in the chest and side, he was still standing when he surrendered.

Police said 21 shots were exchanged in the gun battle, which began with the robbery of a liquor store proprietor.

Norman Kornblau, a veteran of several previous holdups, said a Negro about 28 years old took an undetermined amount of money and a bottle of whisky after relieving Kornblau of a gun he kept in the store.

Kornblau reached for a second gun and fired at the bandit four times at point-blank range. As the startled gunman fled, an off-duty policeman attracted by the shots gave chase. He was joined by five others before the shooting ended and the capture was made.

A 7-year-old boy was hit by a stray bullet believed to have been fired by one of the policemen. The boy suffered a leg fracture and was admitted to Provident hospital for treatment.

Ex-GI Has Trouble Getting Russian Elbe Vets To U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—An ex-GI who arranged a visit to Moscow last year for nine American veterans of the 1945 U.S.-Soviet linkup at the Elbe River said today he is having difficulty getting a group of Russians into this country for a return celebration.

Joseph Polowsky, 39, of Chicago, told a reporter the State Department has refused to approve official visas for a group of Russian Elbe linkup veterans at this time. The 11th anniversary of the historic World War II event in Germany is next Wednesday.

Polowsky said the State Department has suggested the Russians be asked instead to visit the United States "to coincide" with the visit of "the official Soviet World War II veterans delegation headed by Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and Marshal Ivan S. Koniev."

Koniev was senior Soviet officer at the 1945 meeting of the American and Soviet armies at the Elbe.

However, Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said he had checked "backward and forward" and found no basis whatsoever for the report that Zhukov and Koniev were being asked to visit the United States.

Margaret 'Old Maid' In TV Dramatic Debut

HOLLYWOOD, April 22 (AP)—Margaret Truman Daniel, the new bride, will make her TV dramatic debut as an old maid.

Producer Albert McCleery said today Mrs. Daniel has the script with her on her honeymoon.

McCleery, who produces NBC's Matinee Theater, said she will play the part of an old maid schoolteacher in "Autumn Crocus" on June 6.

The daughter of the former president has appeared many times on television, but never in a straight dramatic role.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Here's the secret of making your clothes fit better—without taking a single stitch.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Giving Yourself A Fitting

When a new suit doesn't fit as smoothly after a few wearings as it did at the start, what is to blame? It can be that it's not the suit, but your figure which needs alteration.

You were standing at your straightest best when you tried the suit on. Do you stand as straight all the time as you do when making a critical inspection in a dressing room mirror? Wrinkles that are missing in the back when shoulders are held correctly have a way of showing up immediately when shoulders sag. The bust curves that you filled in so nicely when you stood at attention deflate when your figure droops. And how did the skirt get so tight across the abdomen? The skirt still measures the same, but your posture does not measure up.

Wear the new suit and try to catch yourself in your customary stance in a full-length mirror. Now take the flaws out of your posture and see how this figure altering seems to alter the suit. Start by raising your chest up, and up, as high as you can. Stand tall with your head high, with the hunch gone from your shoulders. Now—aren't both bust and shoulder lines corrected already?

To ease the skirt over the abdomen, change the tilt of your pelvic bones. Tilt them upward as you tighten abdominal muscles and pull the derriere up under your body at the same time. There—the skirt isn't too small after all.

Nothing you wear should be

Law Of Diminishing Returns Still Applies

With expenditures approaching the $1.9 billion in New York City, and with other cities calculating their outgo for the approaching fiscal year, the matter of municipal governmental costs is having its annual fling in newspaper headlines. And the Bureau of the Census supplies some figures.

These statistics, passed along by the United States Municipal News, show that the larger the city is the more employees per 10,000 population it requires for municipal functions. Applying the population yardstick, five cities with more than a million inhabitants need twice as many police employees and five times as many fire department workers per unit of measure as do communities of less than 5,000.

The picture is similar for sanitation, park and recreational staffs. The smaller cities require proportionately about as many employees for their water departments but fewer for street maintenance.

In averaging the manpower required in cities of various sizes, the Bureau of the Census found that those of less than 5,000 residents require 50 employees per 10,000 population while those of more than a million residents require 104. The breakdown for cities in between these extremes shows that as population rises the number of citizens served by a single municipal employee grows steadily smaller.

The higher cost of municipal services in larger cities stems not only from the larger number of employees needed but also from the higher rate of pay which prevails in larger population centers. While the average full-time worker in the community of less than 5,000 is paid $231 a month, the average worker for the city of more than a million receives $388 a month. The pay scales are in part a reflection of the higher cost of living in bigger cities.

The Bureau of the Census study shows that in the field of municipal services the law of diminishing returns controls what the tax dollar buys.

Touring Officials

The habit is developing for heads of states, prime ministers and foreign ministers to move about like travelling salesmen. They are shown about a country, they are wined and dined; they confer and some of them get subsidies for their country. None of them ever stay in another land long enough to learn very much of the people and their habits, but on such a subject they can either be briefed by ambassadors, ministers, members of the consular service, or they can read Lee Mortimer's unbelievable book, "Around the World Confidential."

On the whole, this new method of direct discussions between heads of states rather than through diplomatic channels has not produced observable favorable results, although such things are not always currently measurable. President Eisenhower, for instance, recently had some private talks with the top Canadians, but it is not noticeable that these talks have produced any changes in Canada's attitude on any important problem, or, for that matter, any changes in American policy where we differ from Canada. In a word, wherever there are differences, they have become accentuated during the past two or three years.

Lord Vansittart, who had a long and remarkable career in the British Foreign Office as the permanent undersecretary, introduced a resolution in the House of Lords recently:

"To suggest, seeing that the visit of Marshal Bulganin and Mr. Khrushchev would be unwelcome to many in this country, that wider and more authoritative use should be made of diplomacy to moderate the growing excess of diplomacy by conference and visit . . ."

He made the point that his 40 years of experience gave him the impression that the practice of diplomacy by visit was being overdone. He reminded the Lords that Sir Edward Grey, a great foreign minister, practiced the doctrine that the proper place for a foreign secretary was the Foreign Office, which is equivalent to saying that the proper and undoubtedly the best place for John Foster Dulles to be would be in the State Department building, as dull as that might be.

If it is impossible for the United States to hire competent men to represent us abroad so that we need to keep our secretary of state on the move all the time, then there is something very wrong about our hiring policy.

For instance, the way was to India for Mr. Dulles to train all the way down to India to talk to Nehru when we have an ambassador there who can talk to Nehru and who is literate and therefore can write a report which can be read? It is understood that Ambassador John Sherman Cooper has suggested that the best way to please Nehru is to recognize Red China. Did Mr. Dulles on his visit to India learn more than that? If he did, maybe the trip was worth while; if he did not, what will be or President Eisenhower learn from Nehru when he comes here next summer to watch the President play golf and to talk to him with some intimacy away from Washington?

Lord Vansittart also said this:

"The impending visit had been conceived in the exuberance of the Geneva spirit. Much of the world had come to the conclusion that the proper receptacles for that spirit were mugs (laughter). They remained unshaken by Marshal Bulganin's recent eulogy of the martini role. The fiasco of Geneva were boosted and built up until they produced a bad outbreak of the most dangerous malady of the modern world—the disease of impossible expectation. Slave countries considered that the West was lowering its standards by frivolous convivialities."

It is to be hoped that we shall not make the same mistake that the British made, the mistake of inviting Khrushchev and Bulganin to come to this country to show off their conquests and to display their vulgarity. We have plenty of our own vulgarities and need not import any from anywhere. It is enough that we have all kinds of ambassadors and other kinds of diplomats, some of whom employ their extraterritorial privileges to head espionage organizations, as has during the past weeks been testified to under oath before the Senate Internal Security Committee. This is particularly true in the testimony of Yuri Rastvorov who, having been an NKVD agent in Japan, has taken refuge in this country and is telling all.

It's On The Agenda

Some Democrats Think Ike Can Be Beaten, But...

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON — Since the President's veto of the farm bill, and the recent series of primaries, some Democrats are beginning to say that Eisenhower can be beaten, and even sound as if they meant it.

Most Democrats still privately believe that there is about as much chance of beating the President as there would be of defeating a suddenly resurrected George Washington. Yet the reasoning of the more optimistic minority is at least worth reproducing. It falls roughly into five parts.

Evidence Unreliable

1. The public opinion polls provide the only solid evidence that the President is invincible. But early in the 1948 campaign the polls also showed Thomas E. Dewey winning by a landslide margin. And this year, before the Minnesota primary, the polls showed Adlai Stevenson running as much as three to one ahead of Estes Kefauver. In short, the evidence provided by the polls—or so the Democratic optimists claim—is demonstrably unreliable.

2. More reliable evidence is provided by the elections which have taken place since 1952. As one Democrat put it, "The Republicans have lost more elections under Eisenhower in the last three years than under any Republican president in this century, and probably in history."

There is some factual basis for this extreme statement. The Democrats scored a higher proportion of the popular vote in the 1954 congressional election than in any off-year election since 1934. Wherever else you look — the special elections (7 out of 8 Democratic wins), the gubernatorial elections (9 governorships won, none lost), the state legislatures (500 seats won, five lost) — the pattern of remarkable Democratic success holds.

3. Further evidence is provided by the recent primaries. The Democrats compare the party vote in 1952 and 1956 primaries, and claim cause for jubilation. The 1952 Minnesota primary voting was about two to one Republican, and this proportion was reversed in 1956. The Republican vote in Wisconsin dropped 20 per cent. In Illinois, the Democrats went from a third of the vote to almost half, and in New Jersey from 27 per cent to 43 per cent.

Some Factual Basis

4. "All this talk about a third party revolt in the South is a lot of malarkey, plus Republican wishful thinking." Again, there is some factual basis for this statement. According to a memorandum circulated by the Democratic National Committee, not a single Democratic senator, governor, or other high party official in the South has publicly favored a third party. And a lot of Southerners, from Alabama's Gov. Folsom to Georgia's revered Sen. George, have been busy pouring cold water on the third party idea.

As a recent statement by Sen. Hubert Humphrey suggests, the Democratic leadership hopes to avoid a convention split over the civil rights plank. The idea is to frame a plank which will make a formal bow towards the Supreme Court's segregation decision, but will leave out all mention of federal enforcement.

If this measure of appeasement has the desired effect, the Democrats will have at least rational grounds for hoping that the Southern and normally Democratic bor-

Sanitation, Vaccines Still Need In Typhoid Fight

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

from the Minnesota Health Department where up to this writing 19 cases have occurred since the first of the year. This number, while not alarming, is of significance because it is more than double the 1955 total. There also are cases in neighboring states.

Typhoid epidemics are bound to occur unless we maintain our high standards of sanitation and bolster immunity through typhoid vaccination. There is no doubt that many individuals are susceptible to the disease but do not become ill because they never contact the causative germs.

Every year we read of epidemics from various parts of the country. The latest report comes

This was true when typhoid was rife and there is no reason to believe it would be any different now. Scientific studies show that a person who lives in a typhoid-free community is five times more susceptible to the infection than the natives of a disease-ridden area.

Where the disorder abounds the inhabitants develop immunity because they are in daily contact with the organisms over a long period of time. When typhoid was common in Chicago up to the turn of the century, immigrants arriving from regions where typhoid had been brought under control usually contracted the disease.

Typhoid has been given to laboratory animals but in its natural state is limited to man. The small epidemics that crop up here and there are sufficient warning that we must keep up our immunity and our present standards of sanitation. Everyone should ask himself, "Am I immune?"

An epidemic of a related disease, paratyphoid, occurred recently in Lancaster, Pa. There were 200 cases and the source was traced to milk from a certain dairy. This outbreak again pointed up the need for continued supervision by public health authorities of our milk and water supplies.

Democrats And Republicans Jockey Intensely For Northern Negro Vote

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Intense political jockeying has been started to get credit with the big mass of Negro voters for passing a civil rights bill which would protect Negro voting rights in the South. Both the Republicans and Northern Democrats are wooing the big city Negro vote.

The jockeying has become so weird that in a closed-door meeting of the House Judiciary Committee last week, New York's Congressman Ken Keating, an Eisenhower Republican who claims to favor civil rights, helped sidetrack the Democratic civil rights bill.

He did this by failing to use three Republican proxies he had in his pocket and voting them against Southern Democrats and five Republicans to recommit the civil rights bill. The vote was 14-13 to send the Democrats' civil rights bill back to subcommittee. Keating voted for civil rights. But he did not reach into his pocket and pull out the three proxies which would have reversed the one-vote margin against civil rights.

The five Republicans who lined up with the Southern Democrats to sidetrack the bill were: Ruth Thompson, Mich.; Crumpacker, Ind.; Burdick, N. D.; Hyde, Md.; Poff, Va.

This made Northern Democrats boiling mad. They had been trying to pass a civil rights bill for months and could have done so with a little Republican help.

What Keating and the Republicans were trying to do, however, was to block the broader civil rights bill introduced by Democratic Congressman Celler of Brooklyn on January 5, in favor of the late-arriving bill submitted by Attorney General Brownell on April 10, following months of back-stage hawking inside the Justice Department over how far the Eisenhower administration should go in civil rights.

Split Personality

"I've got no objection as long as it's a step forward," announced Rep. Irwin Davidson (D., N. Y.) after Keating proposed the substitution of the Brownell bill for the Celler bill.

"Of course, practically everything in the attorney general's program is already in the Celler bill," noted Rep. Charles Boyle (D., Ill.). "In fact, the President already has the power to do most of these things by executive order."

Keating's proposal to adopt the Brownell bill failed, however, and it looked like clear sailing for the Celler bill until a filibuster was started by Reps. Edwin Willis (D., La.) and E. L. Forrester (D., Ga.). At this point the GOP members lapsed into silence. They saw a chance to let the Democrats suffer from their North-South split personality.

"This is unconstitutional," Willis and Forrester insisted, "An invasion of the federal government into a field that's purely the province of the states." They were referring to Celler's proposal to make deprivation of voting rights a criminal offense.

"We expected this sort of pettifoggery argument from you," shot back Chicago's Boyle. "This isn't exactly unexpected in view of your record of trying to negate the decision of the Supreme Court in the Brown school case."

Suddenly Willis moved to recommit and was seconded by Rep. Robert Ashmore (D., S. C.).

"I don't see why this should go back to the subcommittee," objected Rep. Thomas Lane (D., Mass.), who is chairman of the committee. "We held extensive hearings there and we exhausted the subject."

"I appeared before the subcommittee, and I don't know what else I could say if I appeared before them again," Davidson pointed out. "We ought to have a vote on this."

and we should vote it up or we should vote it down — preferably up!"

When the vote was taken the bill was sent "down"—back to Lane's subcommittee. The five Republicans who voted against it were joined by the following Democrats: Chelf, Ky.; Walter, Pa.; Frazier, Tenn.; Jones, N. C.; Brooks, Texas; Luck, Va.; Ashmore, S. C.; Willis; Taft; and Forrester, Ga.

Compromise On Rights

Back in Lane's subcommittee, the hot civil rights bill was worked over so as to please both sides. Some parts of the Democratic Celler bill were adopted and some parts of the Brownell Republican bill.

Chief difference between the two bills is that the Celler Democratic bill provides for tougher criminal penalties if a Negro suffers death or bodily harm as a result of exercising his voting or other rights. Brownell proposes no changes in the present law on this point.

The present law provides that there must be a proved conspiracy of two or more people to deprive a Negro of his voting rights, and in various cases arising in Mississippi which were taken before the Justice Department, Brownell has ruled that it would be difficult for him to prove a conspiracy. He has therefore, refusing to intervene.

The Democratic Celler bill imposes criminal penalties if a Negro suffers bodily harm regardless of whether there is a conspiracy. The Democrats' bill also spells out civil rights, imposes stiff criminal penalties, and prohibits segregation in interstate transportation.

The compromise bill as finally adopted in subcommittee included the stiffer Democratic penalties, but adopted the Brownell plan when it came to establishing a civil rights division in the Justice Department.

NOTE — If and when the revamped civil rights bill clears the Judiciary Committee, it must then clear the Rules Committee and finally the Senate, where a filibuster is certain. If the bill gets stuck in the Rules Committee, Congressman Roosevelt of California has lined up 20 private organizations to get the necessary 218 signatures to pry it loose.

Wageworkers, Bombing

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—In considering this topic, there are several important factors which must be weighed by both employers and wageworkers. One of the first of these is location. In addition to the question of whether it is a good place to live, a location is either favorable or unfavorable depending upon its suitability for the industry in which you are engaged. If the commodity to be produced is bulky and heavy, accessibility, through proximity or ample transportation, is necessary.

Location And Capital

A successful steel mill's location is determined primarily by its accessibility to the raw material. Transportation by rail and water is highly essential. Another factor in determining an ideal location for an industrial plant is a market for the finished product. Heavy products are therefore excluded from some markets by consideration of "what-the-traffic-will-bear." A carload of silk can be shipped much farther than a carload of steel, since the rate cost per unit would be much less for silk. This would give it a larger market. Therefore, accessibility to both the raw material and the market for the finished goods is very important in determining an ideal location for a successful enterprise.

Another factor in plant location is capital (money). In many industries, thousands of dollars must be invested in order to employ one worker. Millions of dollars must be invested to construct a steel mill. Were it not for capital, we could not have ample railways and airplanes, or tall office buildings, or bridges to span large rivers. We would still be in the horse-and-buggy stage. Capital is what makes it possible for 63,000,000 workers to be employed at wages hitherto undreamed of. The United States is the only nation in which this utopian condition exists.

Importance Of Management
An ample, congenial labor supply is highly essential for a good industrial plant location. Manufacturers could not do anything without labor. And labor could not be employed by the millions without a large accumulation of capital. Capital depends on labor; what labor depends on capital; what harms one, harms both. If you are working in a place where the above factors are generally favorable, the next important factor is management. A manager's functions are to organize, deputize, supervise, and vitalize the organization.

In summary, an industrial plant, to have a good chance of being successful, must enjoy these five factors: materials, market, money, men, and management. Sometimes I think that management is the most important of all. Furthermore, if you are an employer, remember that the success of the management depends upon you and the other wageworkers.

Possibility Of World War III

I am not advising any worker to change the place where he is now working for fear of World War III. I forecast that such a war is not coming at once, and may not come for some time—until after you are retired and have a good home in the South or in California. But I do advise young persons who are just entering industry to avoid certain big cities, some of which are sure to be laid waste in this event of atomic attack. This means that small communities, some miles distant from big vulnerable industrial cities, should be preferred by those who have not already set their "roots" elsewhere.

Most large corporations are now building auxiliary plants in such smaller safe cities and towns. Therefore, when you decide what industry you are best fitted for, and what company you wish to work for, ask the employment manager to give you a job in a small community. This especially applies to prospective graduates of high schools and colleges which are now being visited by employment managers seeking good men and women to join their organizations.

Law Of Diminishing Returns Still Applies

With expenditures approaching the $1.9 billion level in New York City, and with other cities calculating their outgo for the approaching fiscal year, the matter of municipal governmental costs is having its annual fling in newspaper headlines. And the Bureau of the Census supplies some figures.

These statistics, passed along by the United States Municipal News, show that the larger the city is the more employees per 10,000 population it requires for municipal functions. Applying the population yardstick, five cities with more than a million inhabitants need twice as many police employees and five times as many fire department workers per unit of measure as do communities of less than 5,000.

The picture is similar for sanitation, park and recreational staffs. The smaller cities require proportionately about as many employees for their water departments but fewer for street maintenance.

In averaging the manpower required in cities of various sizes, the Bureau of the Census found that those of less than 5,000 residents require 50 employees per 10,000 population while those of more than a million residents require 104. The breakdown for cities in between these extremes shows that as population rises the number of citizens served by a single municipal employee grows steadily smaller.

The higher cost of municipal services in larger cities stems not only from the larger number of employees needed but also from the higher rate of pay which prevails in larger population centers. While the average full-time worker in the community of less than 5,000 is paid $231 a month, the average worker for the city of more than a million receives $388 a month. The pay scales are in part a reflection of the higher cost of living in bigger cities.

The Bureau of the Census study shows that in the field of municipal services the law of diminishing returns controls what the tax dollar buys.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Touring Officials

The habit is developing for heads of states, prime ministers and foreign ministers to move about like travelling salesmen. They are shown about a country, they are wined and dined; they confer and some of them get subsidies for their country. None of them ever stay in another land long enough to learn very much of the people and their habits, but on such a subject they can either be briefed by ambassadors, ministers, members of the consular service, or they can read Lee Mortimer's unbelievable book, "Around the World Confidential."

On the whole, this new method of direct discussions between heads of states rather than through diplomatic channels has not produced observable favorable results, although such things are not always currently measurable. President Eisenhower, for instance, recently had some private talks with the top Canadians, but it is not noticeable that these talks have produced any changes in Canada's attitude on any important problem, or, for that matter, any changes in American policy where we differ from Canada. In a word, wherever there are differences, they have become accentuated during the past two or three years.

Lord Vansittart, who had a long and remarkable career in the British Foreign Office as the permanent undersecretary, introduced a resolution in the House of Lords recently:

"To suggest, seeing that the visit of Marshal Bulganin and Mr. Khrushchev would be unwelcome to many in this country, that wider and more authoritative use should be made of diplomacy to moderate the growing excess of diplomacy by conference and visit . . ."

He made the point that his 40 years of experience gave him the impression that the practice of diplomacy by visit was being overdone. He reminded the Lords that Sir Edward Grey, a great foreign minister, practiced the doctrine that the proper place for a foreign secretary was the Foreign Office, which is equivalent to saying that the proper and undoubtedly the best place for John Foster Dulles to be would be in the State Department building, as dull as that might be.

If it is impossible for the United States to hire competent men to represent us abroad so that we need to keep our secretary of state on the move all the time, then there is something very wrong about our hiring policy.

For instance, why was it necessary for Mr. Dulles to traipse all the way down to India to talk to Nehru when we have an ambassador there who can talk to Nehru and who is literate and therefore can write a report which can be read? It is understood that Ambassador John Sherman Cooper has suggested that the best way to please Nehru is to recognize Red China. Did Mr. Dulles on his visit to India learn more than that? If he did, maybe the trip was worth while; if he did not, what will he or President Eisenhower learn from Nehru when he comes here next summer to watch the President play golf and to talk to him with some intimacy away from Washington?

Lord Vansittart also said this:

"The impending visit had been conceived in the exuberance of the Geneva spirit. Much of the world had come to the conclusion that the proper receptacles for that spirit were mugs (laughter). They remained unshaken by Marshal Bulganin's recent eulogy of the martini role. The fiascos of Geneva were boosted and built up until they produced a bad outbreak of the most dangerous malady of the modern world—the disease of impossible expectation. Slave countries considered that the West was lowering its standards by frivolous convivialities."

It is to be hoped that we shall not make the same mistake that the British made, the mistake of inviting Khrushchev and Bulganin to come to this country to show off their conquests and to display their vulgarity. We have plenty of our own vulgarities and need not import any from anywhere. It is enough that we have all kinds of ambassadors and other kinds of diplomats, some of whom employ their extraterritorial privileges to head espionage organizations, as has during the past weeks been testified to under oath before the Senate Internal Security Committee. This is particularly true in the testimony of Yuri Rastvorov who, having been an NKVD agent in Japan, has taken refuge in this country and is telling all.

It's On The Agenda

Some Democrats Think Ike Can Be Beaten, But...

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON — The public opinion polls that the President's veto of the farm bill, and the recent series of primaries, some Democrats are beginning to say that Eisenhower can be beaten, and even to sound as if they meant it.

Most Democrats still privately believe that there is about as much chance of beating the President as there would be of defeating a suddenly resurrected George Washington. Yet the reasoning of the more optimistic minority is at least worth reproducing. It falls roughly into five parts.

Evidence Unreliable

1. The public opinion polls provide the only solid evidence that the President is invincible. But early in the 1948 campaign the polls also showed Thomas E. Dewey winning by a landslide margin. And this year, before the Minnesota primary, the polls showed Adlai Stevenson running as much as three to one ahead of Estes Kefauver. In short, the evidence provided by the polls—or so the Democratic optimists claim—is demonstrably unreliable.

2. More reliable evidence is provided by the elections which have taken place since 1952. As one Democrat put it, "The Republicans have lost more elections under Eisenhower in the last three years than under any Republican president in this century, and probably in history."

There is some factual basis for this extreme statement. The Democrats scored a higher proportion of the popular vote in the 1954 congressional election than in any off-year election since 1934. Wherever else you look — the special elections (7 out of 8 Democratic wins), the gubernatorial elections (9 governorships won, none lost), the state legislatures (500 seats won, five lost) — the pattern of remarkable Democratic success holds.

3. Further evidence is provided by the recent primaries. The Democrats compare the party vote in 1952 and 1956 primaries, and claim cause for jubilation. The 1952 Minnesota primary voting was about two to one Republican, and this proportion was reversed in 1956. The Republican vote in Wisconsin dropped 20 per cent. In Illinois, the Democrats went from a third of the vote to almost half, and in New Jersey from 27 per cent to 43 per cent.

Some Factual Basis

4. "All this talk about a third party revolt in the South is a lot of malarkey, plus Republican wishful thinking." Again, there is some factual basis for this statement. According to a memorandum circulated by the Democratic National Committee, not a single Democratic senator, governor, or other high party official in the South has publicly favored a third party. And a lot of Southerners, from Alabama's Gov. Folsom to Georgia's revered Sen. George, have been busy pouring cold water on the third party idea.

As a recent statement by Sen. Hubert Humphrey suggests, the Democratic leadership hopes to avoid a convention split over the civil rights plank. The idea is to frame a plank which will make a formal bow towards the Supreme Court's desegregation decision, but will leave out all mention of federal enforcement.

If this measure of appeasement has the desired effect, the Democrats will have at least rational grounds for hoping that the Southern and normally Democratic border states will return to their traditional allegiance. In that case, the Democratic candidate will inherit 170 electoral votes, with only another 96 needed to win. Surely, the Democrats argue, with the farmers in revolt and other special voting groups unhappy, it will not be impossible to pick up those 96 votes.

5. The Democrats have now plucked up their courage to attack the President frontally. A headline in the current issue of the "Democratic Digest" sets the tone: "Extra Take the Blame... But It's Ike's Farm Depression." The President will be attacked frontally for "broken promises" on farm and labor legislation, and obliquely as a "part time President" presiding over a "rich man's administration."

Whistling In The Dark

This line of attack could be effective. Moreover, though some Democratic claims are exaggerated (for example, there is no contest for the Republican nomination, which largely accounts for the drop in the Republican primary vote) Democratic successes at the polls since 1952 have been undeniably impressive.

Even so, there is a certain whistling in the dark sound when Democrats talk about beating Eisenhower in November. If one imagines a post-election headline—"Eisenhower Beaten By..."—it is remarkably difficult to fill in the blank with the name of any visible Democratic candidate. Yet the facts listed above do suggest that the Republicans may be a little too complacent about the election, as they were once before in recent memory.

Democrats And Republicans Jockey Intensely For Northern Negro Vote

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Intense political jockeying has been started to get credit with the big mass of Negro voters for passing a civil rights bill which would protect Negro voting rights in the South. Both the Republicans and Northern Democrats are wooing the big city Negro vote.

The jockeying has become so weird that in a closed-door meeting of the House Judiciary Committee last week, New York's Congressman Ken Keating, an Eisenhower Republican who claims to favor civil rights, helped sidetrack the Democratic civil rights bill.

He did this by failing to use three Republican proxies he had in his pocket and voting them against Southern Democrats and five Republicans to recommit the civil rights bill. The vote was 14-13 to send the Democrats' civil rights bill back to subcommittee. Keating voted for civil rights. But he did not reach into his pocket and pull out the three proxies which would have reversed the one-vote margin against civil rights.

The five Republicans who lined up with the Southern Democrats to sidetrack the bill were: Ruth Thompson, Mich.; Crumpacker, Ind.; Burdick, N. D.; Hyde, Md.; Poff, Va.

This made Northern Democrats boiling mad. They had been trying to pass a civil rights bill for months and could have done so with a little Republican help.

What Keating and the Republicans were trying to do, however, was to block the broader civil rights bill introduced by Democratic Congressman Celler of Brooklyn on January 5, in favor of the late-arriving bill submitted by Attorney General Brownell on April 10, following months of backstage haggling inside the Justice Department over how far the Eisenhower administration should go in civil rights.

Split Personality

"I've got no objection as long as it's a step forward," announced Rep. Irwin Davidson (D., N. Y.) after Keating proposed the substitution of the Brownell bill for the Celler bill.

"Of course, practically everything in the attorney general's program is already in the Celler bill," noted Rep. Charles Boyle (D., Ill.). "In fact, the President already has the power to do most of these things by executive order."

Keating's proposal to adopt the Brownell bill failed, however, and it looked like clear sailing for the Celler bill until a filibuster was started by Reps. Edwin Willis (D., La.) and E. L. Forrester (D., Ga.). At this point the GOP members lapsed into silence. They saw a chance to let the Democrats suffer from their North-South split personality.

"This is unconstitutional," Willis and Forrester insisted. "An invasion of the federal government into a field that's purely the province of the states." They were referring to Celler's proposal to make deprivation of voting rights a criminal offense.

"We expected this sort of pettifoggery argument from you," shot back Chicago's Boyle. "This isn't exactly unexpected in view of your record of trying to negate the decision of the Supreme Court in the Brown school case."

Suddenly Willis moved to recommit and was seconded by Rep. Robert Ashmore (D., S. C.).

"I don't see why this should go back to the subcommittee," objected Rep. Thomas Lane (D., Mass.), who is chairman of the committee. "We held extensive hearings there and we exhausted the subject."

"I appeared before the subcommittee, and I don't know what else I could say if I appeared before them again," Davidson pointed out. "We ought to have a vote on this."

Valley Hosts Sentinels At Barton Today

Hornets To Visit Allegany; Aggies Battle Explorers

Two of the four teams deadlocked for first place in the Bi-State Baseball Conference will collide today when Fort Hill's Sentinels meet the Valley High Black Knights in Barton at 3:30 o'clock.

LaSalle and Allegany, the other members of the front-running foursome, will play games at home. Hornets At Allegany Allegany engages winless Hyndman High at Campobello while LaSalle's Explorers tangle with winless Flintstone at Penn Avenue Field. Both contests are set for 4 o'clock.

Allegany, Fort Hill, LaSalle and Valley head the race at the quarter mark with 3-1 records. Each team plays a schedule of 16 games in the nine school circuit.

Ronnie Winters (2-0) is expected to twirl for Fort Hill while Ronnie "Butch" Young (1-1) will toe the slab for John Meyers' aggregation in the game of the day.

Bruce High School (2-2) will play host to Beall (0-2) at Memorial Park, Westernport, in the fourth conference test on tap for today at 3:30 o'clock.

Catamounts Cop Pair

Potomac State College made its record 3-0 in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Concord College Mountain Lions of Athens Saturday at Keyser. The scores were 3-2 in nine innings and 12-4 in seven frames.

The double triumph gave Coach John Maiden's Catamounts a 5-2 record for the 1956 campaign. Bob Kirk yielded only four hits and fanned 10 to win the opener. His record is now 2-1. Allen Gates was the winner in the nightcap affair, his second triumph against no losses.

Herndon Wilkins' timely single drove home the winning tally in the ninth inning of the first game. Gates batted in five runs with a double and two singles in the afterpiece.

Cubs Top Reds, 5-4, Second Game Is Tie

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Redlegs played a 1-1 seven-inning tie in the second game of a doubleheader before 14,229 here today after the Bruins used three homers to win the opener, 5-4.

The second game was called on account of darkness.

The Cubs had a 1-0 lead in the second game when Bob Rush walked Ray Jablonski in the seventh after the Redlegs had loaded the bases.

Ernie Banks and Monte Irvin each hit their second homers of the season in the opener as Rookie Solly Drake got his first in the majors off loser Joe Black with two teammates aboard in the fifth.

Ray Jablonski hit his third and fourth homers of the season for Cincinnati, both with the bases empty as lefty Paul Minner went the distance on a yield of seven hits for his first 1956 decision.

Valley Hosts Sentinels At Barton Today

Hornets To Visit Allegany; Aggies Battle Explorers

Two of the four teams deadlocked for first place in the Bi-State Baseball Conference will collide today when Fort Hill's Sentinels meet the Valley High Black Knights in Barton at 3:30 o'clock.

LaSalle and Allegany, the other members of the front-running four, will play games at home.

Hornets At Allegany
Allegany engages winless Hyndman High at Campobello while LaSalle's Explorers tangle with winless Flintstone at Penn Avenue Field. Both contests are set for 4 o'clock.

Allegany, Fort Hill, LaSalle and Valley head the race at the quarter mark with 3-1 records. Each team plays a schedule of 16 games in the nine school circuit.

Ronnie Winters (2-0) is expected to twirl for Fort Hill while Ronnie "Butch" Young (1-1) will toe the slab for John Meyers' aggregation in the game of the day.

Bruce High School (2-2) will play host to Beall (0-2) at Memorial Park, Westport, in the fourth conference test on tap for today at 3:30 o'clock.

Catamounts Cop Pair
Potomac State College made its record 3-0 in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Concord College Mountain Lions of Athens Saturday at Keyser.

The scores were 3-2 in nine innings and 12-4 in seven frames. The double triumph gave Coach John Maiden's Catamounts a 5-2 record for the 1956 campaign.

Bob Sirk yielded only four hits and fanned 10 to win the opener. His record is now 2-1. Allen Gates was the winner in the nightcap affair, his second triumph against no losses.

Herdon Wilkins' timely single drove home the winning tally in the ninth inning of the first game. Gates batted in five runs with a double and two singles in the afterpiece.

Cubs Top Reds, 5-4, Second Game Is Tie

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Redlegs played a 1-1 seven-inning tie in the second game of a doubleheader before 14,229 here today after the Bruins scored three homers to win the opener, 5-4.

The second game was called on account of darkness.

The Cubs had a 1-0 lead in the second game when Bob Rush walked Ray Jablonski in the seventh after the Redlegs had loaded the bases.

Ernie Banks and Monte Irvin each hit their second homers of the season in the opener as Rookie Solly Drake got his first in the majors off loser Joe Black with two teammates aboard in the fifth.

Ray Jablonski hit his third and fourth homers of the season for Cincinnati, both with the bases empty as lefty Paul Minner went the distance on a yield of seven hits for his first 1956 decision.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Don't bother ME with it. Anything under the hood is my husband's worry."

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Western In Blank Verse

Not long ago, Sir Laurence Olivier, passing through town, observed that Americans mustn't feel too badly about the English doing Shakespeare better than we do because, after all, they'd had possession of Shakespeare for a long long time. Then he added: "I'd hate to see an English western."

Well, if Sir Laurence had hung around long enough, he would have seen — not an English western, exactly — but a sort of Shakespearean western. It was a western in blank verse, something I never thought I'd live to see. Actually, the play "Even the Weariest River" was almost Greek tragedy in its classic simplicity of line and predestined doom. It was one of those big gambles that only television seems prepared to make, something that could have been just awful and turned out to be almost perfect.

It was the story of the death of a western town and the author, Alvin Sapinsley, took as his text (as well as his title) some lines from Swinburne's "The Garden of Proserpine."

"From too much love of living,
"From hope and fear set free,
"We thank with brief thanksgiving
"Whatever gods may be
"That no life lives forever;
"That dead men rise up never;
"That even the weariest river
"Winds somewhere safe to sea."

The town, Weary River, has no purpose for existing except as a waypoint for the stage coach — and, with a railroad creeping across the prairies, the stage coach is obviously not long for this world and neither is the town. Says the narrator, Boris Karloff, who is a combination philosopher, doctor and bartender:

"Our country's history is simply told:
"The land grows up — the people just grow old."

Growing particularly old is the town's sheriff (Frankton) who can't seem to lay his hands on a bandit who has robbed the stage-coach five times and who has killed five men. The townspeople are beginning to whisper that the sheriff, a giant of a man in his day, is superannuated, that he's got to go. Into town staggers a wounded man who, the sheriff quickly discovers, is clearly innocent of the stage robbery.

Still, the townsfolk are clamoring for a scapegoat and when the sheriff's own daughter (Lee Grant) adds her voice, he agrees to jail the man. It is simply a passing moment of weakness — and one rather gets the idea that this is the only moment of weakness in the old sheriff's life — but it is fatal—to himself, to his daughter, to the stranger.

What I particularly liked about Sapinsley's play is that he pursues his course with relentless honesty. The old sheriff has no intention of letting an innocent man die for a crime he didn't commit; he only intended to gain a little time. But the single moment of weakness cannot be atoned for, cannot be undone. When the play ends, the stage is piled with corpses — the sheriff, his daughter, and the stranger. And the town itself has received a sentence of death.

All this is a tall order to put in a western with its traditional scenes, the jail, the barroom, the dusty street, but it was all marvelously convincing and taut, the blank verse spilling out of the mouths of the barroom idlers as readily as if they spoke that way all their lives. There were genuinely fine performances by all the four principals — Mr. Tone, Mr. Karloff, Miss Grant and Christopher Plummer who played the stranger — and a great job of direction by Robert Mulligan.

There was once scene of rather senseless brutality — they just don't seem to know how to get around it in westerns — but otherwise Sapinsley wrote a stunningly unusual play.

When you are working on a ladder do not reach farther than an easy arm's length without bending the body sideways. If you observe this rule you will avoid a nasty fall.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

One of the indispensable adjuncts of good dummy play is the ability to count out a hand. In most hands, as the play develops, a point is reached when the distribution of each of the opponent's cards can be established with absolute certainty. Naturally, this is an advantage which can often become the difference between the success or failure of a hand.

The knack of counting out hands is one that can be easily acquired. The recipe consists of two simple ingredients: the ability to count to 13, and the will to do so.

South's short club bid and his two notrump rebid were both justified by the minimum values he had for an opening bid. North was clearly right to jump to six notrump. With a point count of 21, opposite an opening bid, a slam bid was mandatory.

South won the opening diamond lead, and took the club finesse, which lost to the king. East returned a diamond, and the declarer cashed all his hearts, diamonds and clubs. This brought him down to four spades in each hand. He had to win them all to make the contract.

When South led a low spade to dummy's king, West played the eight and East the deuce. The declarer now proceeded on the basis that the eight was either a singleton or would be followed by the jack, but when he led the queen of spades East showed out, and the slam went up the flue.

West's falsecard was a fine piece of work, but should have proved futile. If South had followed the play carefully, he could have observed at the ninth trick that East had dealt six hearts (West had shown out on the second round of that suit), three diamonds, three clubs, and one spade. The distribution of his hand had been accounted for beyond doubt. It followed, therefore, that West's hand included four spades, and the play of the eight of spades was merely a smokescreen to conceal it.

Television And Radio by John Crosby

Western In Blank Verse

Not long ago, Sir Laurence Olivier, passing through town, observed that Americans mustn't feel too badly about the English doing Shakespeare better than we do because, after all, they'd had possession of Shakespeare for a long long time. Then he added: "I'd hate to see an English western."

Well, if Sir Laurence had hung around long enough, he would have seen — not an English western, exactly — but a sort of Shakespearean western. It was a western in blank verse, something I never thought I'd live to see. Actually, the play "Even the Weariest River," was almost Greek tragedy in its classic simplicity of line and predestined doom. It was one of those big gambles that only television seems prepared to make, something that could have been just awful and turned out to be almost perfect.

It was the story of the death of a western town and the author, Alvin Sapinsky, took as his text (as well as his title) some lines from Swinburne's "The Garden of Proserpine":

"From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
That no life lives forever;
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea."

The town, Weary River, has no purpose for existing except as a waypoint for the stage coach — and, with a railroad creeping across the prairies, the stage coach is obviously not long for this world and neither is the town. Says the narrator, Boris Karloff, who is a combination philosopher, doctor and bartender:

"Our country's history is simply told:
The land grows up — the people just grow old."

Growing particularly old is the town's sheriff (Franchot Tone) who can't seem to lay his hands on a bandit who has robbed the stage-coach five times and who has killed five men. The townspeople are beginning to whisper that the sheriff, a giant of a man in his day, is superannuated, that he's got to go. Into town staggers a wounded man who, the sheriff quickly discovers, is clearly innocent of the stage robbery.

Still, the townsfolk are clamoring for a scapegoat and when the sheriff's own daughter (Lee Grant) adds her voice, he agrees to jail the man. It is simply a passing moment of weakness — and one rather gets the idea that this is the only moment of weakness in the old sheriff's life — but it is fatal — to himself, to his daughter, to the stranger.

What I particularly liked about Sapinsky's play is that he pursues his course with relentless honesty. The old sheriff has no intention of letting an innocent man die for a crime he didn't commit; he only intended to gain a little time. But the single moment of weakness cannot be atoned for, cannot be undone. When the play ends, the stage is piled with corpses — the sheriff, his daughter, and the stranger. And the town itself has received a sentence of death.

All this is a tall order to put in a western with its traditional scenes, the jail, the barroom, the dusty street, but it was all marvelously convincing and taut, the blank verse spilling out of the mouths of the barroom idlers as readily as if they spoke that way all their lives. There were genuinely fine performances by all the four principals — Mr. Tone, Mr. Karloff, Miss Grant and Christopher Plummer who played the stranger — and a great job of direction by Robert Mulligan.

There was one scene of rather senseless brutality — they just don't seem to know how to get around it in westerns — but otherwise Sapinsky wrote a stunningly unusual play.

When you are working on a ladder do not reach farther than an easy arm's length without bending the body sideways. If you observe this rule you will avoid a nasty fall.

Three Persons Killed, 6 Hurt In Auto Crashes

Mishaps Occur In Nearby W. Virginia

Three persons were killed and six others injured, four seriously, in two separate accidents yesterday afternoon in West Virginia.

Dead were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas G. McAllister Jr., Johnstown, Pa., who died when their car collided with another about 10 miles south of Petersburg about noon, and Betty Lee Thomas, 16, of Moorefield, W. Va., who was pinned beneath a wrecked car about three miles east of Moorefield.

Injured in the Petersburg two-car collision were:

Ralph William Radcliffe, 29, of Upper Tract, W. Va., who was admitted to Memorial Hospital here with head lacerations.

Roy J. Kimble, Upper Tract, who was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, in serious condition with internal injuries.

Eugene Kimble, Upper Tract, in serious condition with undetermined injuries at Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va.

A two-year-old girl believed to be the daughter of the McAllisters, "satisfactory" in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Hurt in the Moorefield crash were:

Bobby Ruddle Kile, 16, of Petersburg, driver of the vehicle which overturned after it failed to negotiate a sharp turn. He is in serious condition at Memorial Hospital here with broken ribs, abrasions, possible ruptured spleen and possible punctured kidney.

Gary Hogbin, 16, of Petersburg, in serious condition with a fractured skull in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Head On Crash

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong of Franklin, Pendleton County, said the McAllister car crashed head-on with the Kimble vehicle on a slight curve and grade on U. S. Route 220 about a quarter mile from the Grant County-Pendleton County line.

The McAllisters were pronounced dead at the scene and the others were removed to the hospitals in Schaeffer Funeral Home ambulances.

Trooper Donald A. Burner and Cpl. C. G. Hamrick of Moorefield investigated the single-car mishap on State Route 55 between Moorefield and Wardsville about 1 p. m.

Burner said the car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed when it failed to round a sharp curve, overturning four times, the last time end over end. Miss Thomas who was sitting in the front seat was thrown clear and then crushed when the vehicle landed on her.

Two other passengers in the car, Roger Keplinger, 16, of Petersburg, and Gladys Mathias, 16, of Moorefield, were unhurt, although Miss Mathias was tossed from the front seat into the rear of the car when it turned over.

Hogbin and Keplinger are athletes at Petersburg High School, the former star pitcher for the baseball team, while the latter played center on the football squad.

Fifth This Year

Burner also said Miss Thomas was the fifth fatality in Hardy County this year. Only three fatalities occurred all last year.

The first was on January 29 when John Owen Bowley of Virginia was killed on Route 55 near Wardsville.

The second was March 16 when Floyd William Funk, 13, was killed when a farm tractor traveling on a side road overturned near Moorefield.

The third was March 31 when Woodrow Shoemaker died in an auto accident just south of Moorefield on U. S. Route 220.

The fourth was April 2 when Thomas J. Mostyn was killed in a collision at Wardsville on State Route 55.

A charge of negligent homicide will be placed against Kile in the latest mishap, Trooper Burner said.

Woman Is Injured In Unusual Mishap

Mrs. Virginia Dawson, 30, of Oldtown Road, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night after she was hurt in an unusual automobile mishap.

The hospital said Mrs. Dawson suffered lacerations and abrasions and X-rays will be taken today. She was thrown from a jeep driven by her husband on Oldtown Road about 4 p. m. yesterday.

The woman said a car in front of the jeep stopped suddenly and when Lester Dawson slammed on his brakes the sudden stop threw Mrs. Dawson clear of the open vehicle.

TEXT: Matthew 5:13-16; 7:12.

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

"We never reach the final ethic," states Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, "until we gather around the Person of the Lord, and study what we call the Sermon on the Mount." There are writers who claim that the Sermon on the Mount is too idealistic. It would be too difficult to scale the snow-capped summits of the teaching of our Lord. When Christ concluded His message He then put into practice the bold statements of ethics. Returning from the Mount

Lukas Cites U.S. Support For Czechs

Articles to the Constitution of the Republic of Czechoslovakia, which was essentially the same as the Constitution of the United States, were drawn up at a conference in Pittsburgh, Pa., shortly after World War I.

These little known facts about his native land were explained by Peter Lukas, general manager of the Mt. Savage plant of the Ribbon Copies Corporation of America, at the annual Communion breakfast of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, following the 9 o'clock Mass yesterday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Lukas further stated that the Czech Constitution was approved by President Woodrow Wilson, who became so much beloved in Czechoslovakia that nearly every city has a Wilson Street and most of the country's railroad stations are called Wilson Station. Principal industries of his native land are lumber, textiles, sugar and manufacture of machine tools.

Invocation was given by the pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rev. Lawrence Landring. Benediction was by the council's chaplain, Rev. Marius Elsenor, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Toastmaster at the breakfast was James Robertson and the chairman was Thomas Carroll, deputy grand knight. Ladies of the parish served the breakfast.

Two-Day Elks Region Meeting Concluded Here

Degree Team Wins Ritualistic Trophy

Over 200 delegates and visitors attended the regional meeting of the Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association Saturday and yesterday at the Cumberland lodge on South Centre Street.

The two-day affair was conducted in western style with registration Saturday at 1 p. m., followed by musical programs, trustees' meeting, a Saturday night dance and floor show.

Sunday following church services the delegates and visitors attended the regional business meeting at the local lodge. A musical program and chicken fry closed the session.

Cumberland degree team was presented a trophy for winning the association ritualistic competition several weeks ago in Washington. The team will go to Chicago to compete in the national contest.

Trophy Presented

Presentation of the trophy was made by Claude S. Martin, Washington, member of the association's board of trustees. Individual degree awards were presented to William J. Aumiller, Bruce M. Mackey, William E. Hixenbaugh, Harry E. Thomas, John E. Mertens, all of Cumberland; Daniel H. Turner, Annapolis; Harry F. Trumpower and J. C. Bozman, Easton. Also on the Cumberland degree team are F. L. Robertson and Charles S. Fields.

Paul K. Shutt Sr., Havre De Grace, president of the association, presided at the general meeting yesterday and Charles L. Moberly, chaplain from Hagerstown, opened the session with a prayer.

Flag salute and roll call officers and committees was made by R. E. Dove, secretary, from Annapolis. Various reports, including the treasurer, Joseph G. Motyka, Washington, were read.

Washington lodge requested the 1957 association convention. The 1957 convention will be held in Easton.

Progress Reported

R. T. Pickrel, chairman of the boys camp committee, reported the camp will open this summer and that work on the camp site is progressing.

The board of trustees meeting will be held in May at Wilmington, Del., and the next regional session is scheduled for June 23-24 at Prince Georges County lodge.

There were 75 delegates and 145 visitors registered for the weekend event. They were from Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington and Dover, Del.; Hagerstown, Towson, Frostburg, Annapolis, Frederick, Salisbury, Havre de Grace, Easton, Silver Spring, Essex and Prince Georges County.

Bruce M. Mackey is exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, BPOE.

Police Check Battery Theft, Vandalism

City police are probing the theft Saturday night of a $15 heavy duty battery from a tow truck on the Miller Auto Company lot. The owner reported the truck's hood was padlocked and chained and the lock and chain also were missing.

Also being checked is the report a garage on Maryland Avenue, owned by Lester L. Dolan, 1701 Bedford Street, had its windows broken and was entered. The vandals damaged a work bench and shelves in the interior.

Files Review Petition In Circuit Court

Edward F. Boyd, 5 Church Street, Lonaconing, has filed a petition for review of a State Employment Security Board ruling in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Boyd, through Attorney James S. Getty, has appealed the employment Security Board decision of March 29 which denied him unemployment compensation. He contends that the decision was contrary to Maryland Unemployment Compensation Law and contrary to the evidence produced at the hearing.

Ridgeley Street One Way After Today

Ridgeley Mayor Charles Fryer has announced that Knobley Street will be made one-way from Mineral Street to Second Avenue. The change will take place tomorrow morning and will be on a trial basis.

Fryer also said that the dog ordinance will be enforced, and that all dogs not on leashes will be picked up from the streets. This action is in connection with the annual Clean-up Week, which will be held during June.

The Mayor and Council voted to go on daylight saving time at midnight this Saturday.

W. Md. Resumes Tax Battle For Third Time

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 22 (AP)—Come May 21, and Western Maryland Railway goes back to court at Keyser for the fourth round of its running property assessment fight with the State Board of Public Works.

At issue before Mineral County Circuit Judge Ernest A. See will be the 13 million-dollar assessment the board put on the carrier's Classes III and IV, or tangible, properties in the state for 1955 tax purposes.

The railroad, which consistently has argued valuations placed on its property have been too high, already has made it clear that it does not intend to pay the full amount of taxes due on the 1955 assessment.

Its tax bill was computed at $237,894.02 for the year, with the first half amount—or $118,947.01—due last fall and an equal amount payable May 1.

Claims More Owed

Late in October, Chief Harry C. Deisher of the Auditor's Office utility tax division received a check from the railroad for $78,690.50. That, he said, left Western Maryland still owing $40,256.51 for the first half alone.

In three previous circuit court cases—in Randolph County in 1942 and before Judge See at Keyser in 1951 and again in 1955—the railroad succeeded in winning assessment reductions.

The Supreme Court upheld the Randolph order reducing a 1941 board assessment of $11,074.200 to $8,504,000. The state did not appeal Judge See's ruling dropping a 1950 board assessment of 11 million to $9,366,000.

The Mineral County judge was reversed by the Supreme Court, however, after he reduced the Board of Public Works valuation of $11,250,000 for 1954 to $8,600,000.

Unanimous Opinion

In a unanimous opinion in the 1954 assessment case, Supreme Court Judge Leslie E. Given took the view that the value of Western Maryland property in the state "would greatly exceed" the assessment set by the board.

The lines for the new court action actually were drawn last summer, when the railroad filed notice of its intention to seek review of the new board assessment shortly after the 13-million figure was set finally.

Supreme Court review of the Mineral order in the 1954 case likewise then was still pending. Western Maryland has brought suit in Mineral County because the greatest share of its property is in that county.

That the 1955 case actually would go to trial as scheduled May 21 became certain a few days ago, when Asst. Atty. General Robert Magnuson told counsel for the company that the assessment neither imported values of Western Maryland property into West Virginia, nor discriminated against the carriers.

Police Check Battery Theft, Vandalism

City police are probing the theft Saturday night of a $15 heavy duty battery from a tow truck on the Miller Auto Company lot. The owner reported the truck's hood was padlocked and chained and the lock and chain also were missing.

Also being checked is the report a garage on Maryland Avenue, owned by Lester L. Dolan, 1701 Bedford Street, had its windows broken and was entered. The vandals damaged a work bench and shelves in the interior.

Files Review Petition In Circuit Court

Edward F. Boyd, 5 Church Street, Lonaconing, has filed a petition for review of a State Employment Security Board ruling in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Boyd, through Attorney James S. Getty, has appealed the employment Security Board decision of March 29 which denied him unemployment compensation. He contends that the decision was contrary to Maryland Unemployment Compensation Law and contrary to the evidence produced at the hearing.

Ridgeley Street One Way After Today

Ridgeley Mayor Charles Fryer has announced that Knobley Street will be made one-way from Mineral Street to Second Avenue. The change will take place tomorrow morning and will be on a trial basis.

Fryer also said that the dog ordinance will be enforced, and that all dogs not on leashes will be picked up from the streets. This action is in connection with the annual Clean-up Week, which will be held during June.

The Mayor and Council voted to go on daylight saving time at midnight this Saturday.

Man Assaulted And Robbed On Frederick St.

Police Questioning Two Teen-Age Boys

City police last night picked up two teen-age boys for questioning after a 58-year-old Beall Street man was beaten and robbed early yesterday morning on Frederick Street.

Edward Kirk, employed at the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for severely lacerated mouth and bruises and contusions of the head.

He told police he was jumped by two young men, wearing light shirts or jackets, who hit him with their fists and struck him on the head with some unidentified object about 1 a. m. yesterday.

Lt. John Sherry said he was standing in front of Police Headquarters shortly after 1 o'clock when Kirk approached, holding his bleeding mouth, and stated he had been assaulted and robbed.

He told the authorities he had just left a restaurant and was walking along North George Street toward Frederick when he was attacked.

The two assailants grabbed him by the arms, Kirk said, and beat him after dragging him from the corner of George and Frederick streets onto a parking lot and behind some buildings.

Lt. Sherry and Officers Charles Snider and Harry Lser said they found Kirk's wallet with $14 missing, his hat, six cents in change, his Kelly worker's badge and two candy bars scattered about at the scene which also showed signs of a struggle.

Dets. Joseph H. Sticher and George Furstenburg who are assisting in the investigation, last night said a report of an attempt to steal a car in Ridgeley involved three youths, two of whom answered the descriptions of the pair who assaulted Kirk.

Police questioned the two boys picked up last evening but no charges had been filed last night.

Marshal Picks Up 3 Airmen

Three airmen arrested here late Friday night by Maryland State Police were returned to Dover, Del., Air Force Base yesterday to face possible charges involving a stolen automobile and escape from a stockade there.

Held until 1 p. m. yesterday in Allegany County Jail were Charles Eldridge Douglas, Daniel C. Wood and Robert Moslo Holstein who were picked up by Tfc. John F. Browning in front of the State Police barracks in LaVale.

U. S. Marshal George T. Sharp took the trio back to Delaware.

The three had escaped from an Air Force stockade last Monday in Delaware and fled in a stolen car. State police here were alerted that bread had been taken from a bakery truck making deliveries in LaVale by men in an out-of-state car. Descriptions were relayed to the barracks on U. S. Route 40 and the trio were quickly apprehended.

State Police said they were riding in the stolen automobile when halted here.

Three Persons Killed, 6 Hurt In Auto Crashes

Mishaps Occur In Nearby W. Virginia

Three persons were killed and six others injured, four seriously, in two separate accidents yesterday afternoon in West Virginia.

Dead were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas G. McAllister Jr., Johnstown, Pa., who died when their car collided with another about 10 miles south of Petersburg about noon, and Betty Lee Thomas, 16, of Moorefield, W. Va., who was pinned beneath a wrecked car about three miles east of Moorefield.

Injured in the Petersburg two-car collision were: Ralph William Radcliffe, 29, of Upper Tract, W. Va., who was admitted to Memorial Hospital here with head lacerations.

Roy J. Kimble, Upper Tract, who was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, in serious condition with internal injuries.

Eugene Kimble, Upper Tract, in serious condition with undetermined injuries at Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va.

A two-year-old girl believed to be the daughter of the McAllisters, "satisfactory" in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Hurt in the Moorefield crash were:

Bobby Ruddle Kile, 16, of Petersburg, driver of the vehicle which overturned after it failed to negotiate a sharp turn. He is in serious condition at Memorial Hospital here with broken ribs, abrasions, possible ruptured spleen and possible punctured kidney.

Gary Hogbin, 16, of Petersburg, in serious condition with a fractured skull in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Read On Crash

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong of Franklin, Pendleton County, said the McAllister car crashed head-on with the Kimble vehicle on a slight curve and grade on U. S. Route 220 about a quarter mile from the Grant County-Pendleton County line.

The McAllisters were pronounced dead at the scene and the others were removed to the hospitals in Schaeffer Funeral Home ambulances.

Trooper Donald A. Burner and Cpl. C. G. Hamrick of Moorefield investigated the single-car mishap on State Route 55 between Moorefield and Wardensville about 1 p. m.

Burner said the car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed when it failed to round a sharp curve, overturning four times, the last time end over end. Miss Thomas who was sitting in the front seat was thrown clear and then crushed when the vehicle landed on her.

Two other passengers in the car, Roger Kepling, 16, of Petersburg, and Gladys Mathias, 16, of Moorefield, were unhurt, although Miss Mathias was tossed from the front seat into the rear of the car when it turned over.

Hogbin and Kepling are athletes at Petersburg High School, the former star pitcher for the baseball team, while the latter played center on the football squad.

Fifth This Year

Burner also said Miss Thomas was the fifth fatality in Hardy County this year. Only three fatalities occurred last year.

The first was on January 29 when John Owen Bowley of Virginia was killed on Route 55 near Wardensville.

The second was March 16 when Floyd William Funk, 13, was killed when a farm tractor traveling on a side road overturned near Moorefield.

The third was March 31 when Woodrow Shoemaker died in an auto accident just south of Moorefield on U. S. Route 220.

The fourth was April 2 when Thomas J. Mostyn was killed in a collision at Wardensville on State Route 55.

A charge of negligent homicide will be placed against Kile in the latest mishap, Trooper Burner said.

Lukas Cites U.S. Support For Czechs

Articles to the Constitution of the Republic of Czechoslovakia, which was essentially the same as the Constitution of the United States, were drawn up at a conference in Pittsburgh, Pa., shortly after World War I.

These little known facts about his native land were explained by Peter Lukas, general manager of the Mt. Savage plant of the Ribbons Copiers Corporation of America, at the annual Communion breakfast of Cumberland County No. 586, Knights of Columbus, following the 9 o'clock Mass yesterday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Lukas further stated that the Czech Constitution was approved by President Woodrow Wilson, who became so much beloved in Czechoslovakia that nearly every city has a Wilson Street and most of the country's railroad stations are called Wilson Station. Principal industries of his native land are lumber, textiles, sugar and manufacture of machine tools.

Two Opponents Of Fluoridation Dispute Articles

Two opponents of fluoridation of Cumberland's water supply yesterday took issue with a series of articles on fluoridation prepared by the American Dental Association and currently being published in The Cumberland News with the cooperation of the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society.

Regis X. Brinker, 509 Greenway Avenue, a metal worker, and Harold S. Malin, local chiropractor, said they believe fluoridation is harmful, and cited figures to uphold their point of view.

One of the articles in The News said the children of Newburgh, N. Y., have 58 per cent less tooth decay than those in Kingston, Newburgh has been fluoridating its drinking water since 1945, but Kingston has not.

Brinker and Dr. Malin submitted a copy of a letter they said was written by Dr. John A. Forst of the University of New York's State Education Department to Dr. James G. Kerwin of the Passaic, N. J., Department of Health. The letter said 31 per cent of the pupils in Newburgh schools were under dental treatment, while only 20.6 per cent were under treatment in Kingston.

The letter copy did not, however, provide a breakdown by age group.

Brinker and Dr. Malin also quoted an article in the Newburgh Daily News of January 27, 1954, which said the town's heart disease death rate was 882 per hundred thousand of population, somewhat above the national average of 507 per hundred thousand.

Both, however, admitted they knew of no research which tended to show a connection between Newburgh's heart disease rate and fluoridation.

They also took issue with the dental authorities' statement that people in Kingston began talking about starting fluoridation after the results of the comparison with Newburgh became known.

Brinker and Dr. Malin cited the Newburgh News of December 14, 1955, in which Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Kingston public health commissioner, was quoted as saying there had not been much expression of public opinion about fluoridation, but that what he had heard had been "generally in opposition."

Also quoted were a 1938 article in the University of New Mexico Bulletin titled "The Menace of Fluorine to Health," and a 1955 clipping from the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Herald listing figures to show that deaths from heart ailments, cancer, diabetes, and other diseases were higher at Grand Rapids than in the state as a whole.

Grand Rapids had been fluoridating its water for 10 years. Dr. Malin, and Brinker, however, cited no research tending to show a connection.

They also declared that 525 American cities have rejected fluoridation without trying it, and that 60 others have abandoned it after having tried it.

Rev. Robert Y. Johnson, son of Rev. Dr. Crates S. Johnson, pastor emeritus of Central Methodist Church, is the author of one chapter of a book just published by Abingdon Press and edited by John C. Wynn.

Title of the book is "Sermons on Marriage and Family Life." Rev. Johnson, pastor of the Second Congregational Church at Beloit, Wis., and chairman of the board of directors of the Wisconsin Conference, also is a counselor in a college marriage clinic. His chapter is titled "Preface to Holy Matrimony."

Facts On Fluorides—3

Fluorides Show No Harm In Long-Range Testing

Today, The Cumberland News, in cooperation with the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society, presents the third in a series of authoritative articles on the fluoridation of community water supplies. The articles are prepared by the American Dental Association.

Chlorine, widely used in drinking water as a germ-killer, was a poison gas in World War I.

Iodine in trace amounts is essential to life but in the medicine cabinet, it is labeled a poison.

Bromine in the form of bromides is the basis for a number of medicines but can cause mental symptoms in overdosage.

Fluorine, the fourth member of this chemical family, known as the halogens, meaning "salt-formers," fits the same pattern of judicious usage.

Like table salt, fluoride in extreme amounts is toxic. In proper levels, it provides one of the best and safest methods known for preventing tooth decay.

Margin Of Safety

Years of research have demonstrated that one part of fluoride to a million parts of water is the desirable level. If a person drank two quarts of this water, he would consume 2/1000th of a gram of fluoride. To get a lethal amount, he would have to drink about 300 gallons of this water at one sitting, a human impossibility.

There is overwhelming evidence that one part per million (p. p. m.) allows a large margin of safety.

At Bureau, Ill., where the fluoride level in the water is 2.5 p. p. m., an extensive study of 31 persons who have lived there 18 to 68 years showed no indication of any bone or skeletal defects.

The El Paso County (Colo.) Medical Society, whose patients drink Colorado Springs water with a natural fluoride content of 2.6 p. p. m., adopted a resolution stating no medical symptoms have appeared as a result of it.

At an Army induction center at Lubbock, Tex., 1,000 men exposed to drinking water having 5 p. p. m. for a number of years had no greater incidence of bone fracture than comparative-aged men in Washington, D. C., where the water at that time was virtually fluoride-free.

Cancer Patients Unharmed

In Amarillo, Tex., where water fluoride content varies from 3 to 6 p. p. m., 1,300 children were compared with a similar number in Cumberland, Tex., where the water is fluoride-free. There was no difference in bone calcification or in skeletal development rates.

In a rigorous human test, Dr. M. M. Black of New York Medical College gave fluoride at a 320 p. p. m. level to 70 volunteers who were dying of cancer and other incurable illnesses. After six months of this extraordinary high intake, no acute or chronic toxicity was produced. Following death, post-mortem failed to show any damage to soft tissue.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, commissioner of the New York State department of health, emphasized the safety factor in fluoridation when he told the New York Institute of Clinical Oral Pathology that even if by chance an entire day's supply of fluoride for a city were to be added in one four instead of 24, there would still be a safety factor of a hundred-fold.

The two-day affair, was conducted in western style with registration Saturday at 1 p. m., followed by musical programs, trustees' meeting, a Saturday night dance and floor show.

Sunday following church services, the delegates and visitors attended the regional business meeting at the local lodge. A musical program and chicken fry closed the session.

Cumberland degree team was presented a trophy for winning the association ritualistic competition several weeks ago in Washington. The team will go to Chicago to compete in the national contest.

Trophy Presented

Presentation of the trophy was made by Claude S. Martin, Washington, member of the association's board of trustees. Individual degree awards were presented to William J. Aumiller, Bruce M. Mackey, William E. Hixenbaugh, Harry E. Thomas, John E. Mertens, all of Cumberland; Daniel H. Turner, Annapolis; Harry F. Trumppower and J. C. Bozman, Easton. Also on the Cumberland degree team are F. L. Robertson and Charles S. Fields.
